

Call for Papers

XVI. Workshop of the dggö committee “Allocation and Distribution”

University of Hamburg, November 14 and 15, 2025

The dggö committee “Allocation and Distribution” cordially invites you to its 16th workshop. It will take place at the Hamburg Center for Health Economics on November 14 and 15, 2025. The workshop will commence on Friday noon and will end on Saturday afternoon.

The keynote speaker will be Prof. Owen O'Donnell (Erasmus University Rotterdam). His research is in the field of health economics, with particular attention to health inequality, health & labour, health insurance & financial protection and health behaviour & prevention.

At the workshop, members of the dggö and other interested scholars have the opportunity to present their latest research. Topics that will be considered include among others:

- Prioritization or rationing of health care services
- Regional distributional aspects of health care provision
- Risk selection in health care
- Inequality in health
- Physician behavior and incentives
- Distributional effects of health care financing
- Distributional criteria for health care goods

Please submit your paper or an extended abstract (up to 800 words) via the following link:

<https://www.hche.uni-hamburg.de/en/veranstaltungen/allocation-workshop-2025.html>

by August 31, 2025.

Contributions for the workshop will be selected and authors will be notified by September 15, 2025. After notification, the workshop registration will be opened. Registration without presenting a paper is also possible if you are willing to serve as a discussant.

We are looking very much forward to welcoming you all in Hamburg!

Daniel Wiesen
University of Cologne
(Head of the Committee)

Johanna Kokot
University of Hamburg
(Co-head of the Committee)

Find more about us at: <https://www.dggoe.de/ausschuesse/allokation-und-verteilung>